

Note: points in blue below have been added to help establish scale. Points you may have added towards the same end may differ. However, all non-blue points indicated on the graphs below (via coordinates or tick marks) should be present in your graph, as these correspond to interesting features of your graph (often, intercepts — but sometimes other things).

